

Clipwell — the operating system for creators

The Problem

Creators are running businesses with no back office. Scheduling, sponsorship negotiation, analytics, payouts — it is fifteen browser tabs and a spreadsheet.

Our Solution

Clipwell brings it into one place. Publishing, cross-platform analytics, a sponsorship marketplace, and payout tracking. Free to start, with paid tiers for creators who scale.

The Market

The creator economy is worth over $250B and there are more than 200 million creators worldwide. Even a fraction of that is a enormous business.

Traction

The numbers speak for themselves.

- 2.4 million registered creators
- 890,000 monthly active creators
- 47 million pieces of content scheduled through us last year
- 11 billion impressions tracked across connected accounts
- 340,000 Discord community members
- app store rating 4.7, 62,000 reviews
- 190 countries

We doubled monthly actives in eleven months without a single paid acquisition campaign. Growth is entirely organic and entirely creator-led.

Competition

Point tools exist for scheduling and for analytics. Nobody has the whole workflow, and nobody has our community.

The Team

Rafael Munteanu built and sold a social scheduling tool. Ines Deschamps ran partnerships at a creator agency. Fifty-one people.

Business Model

Freemium. Paid tiers at $12 and $29 a month unlock advanced analytics and the sponsorship marketplace.

Conversion to paid is currently 1.1%. We are confident this improves as the sponsorship marketplace matures — creators who earn through us have a clear reason to upgrade, and sponsorship volume grew 300% last year.

Our revenue is not yet where our audience is. With 890,000 monthly actives, even a 5% conversion at $12 would be substantial, and we see no structural reason we cannot reach it.

Funding

We are raising $20M to grow the sponsorship marketplace, expand internationally, and invest in the community that has carried us this far.